

exercises, which is designed for vaginal tightening and bladder control. This helps improve intimacy for women because they enjoy greater sensation and have stronger, more intense orgasms."

For many men who've been let down by the "miracle" erectile dysfunction pills that have flooded the market in the last couple of decades, the only alternative Urologists offer has been a penile implant which involves extensive major surgery. Who wants to think about surgery anywhere near that area? "Our treatment options include simple—yet powerful—FDA-cleared tailor-made prescription medication," says Dr. Everett Campbell, MD. "You don't have to worry about the potential for painful surgery."

With Doctor's Medical Clinic, Dr. Mireku-Boateng, a board-certified urologist, and Dr. Everett Campbell, an OB-GYN, aren't just seeking to improve time spent in the bedroom. Theirs is an anti-aging movement that transforms every aspect of patients' lives, making each day more enjoyable and actually reversing the hands the time when it comes to energy and overall health.

And because location, embarrassment, or finances shouldn't interfere with quality-of-life improvements, "Doctor's Medical Clinic is now partnering with new local clinics opening around the country to ensure its services are accessible to all. Each clinic is staffed with a trained local state licensed physician," according to Blake Nations, corporate CEO.

Doctor's Medical Clinic doesn't believe in a one-size-fits-all approach, so there's no wasted time or money. Instead, the staff is dedicated to helping men and women of every age reclaim the sex life they used to enjoy—and that everyone deserves.

Customized Treatment Plans

The problem with the vast majority of sexual health treatments is that they're made for everyone. Which means they rarely work well for anyone. The erectile dysfunction industry makes lots of promises in their ads, but far too many patients have been sorely disappointed by their results.

Doctor's Medical Clinic is different because its innovative therapies are different. "We've designed a personalized treatment to target most men's specific needs," says Dr. Mireku-Boateng. "We use FDA-cleared custom-blended prescription medication from our licensed pharmacy that's not available at the local Walgreens or CVS. All of the different doses are based on each patient's medical history, and we can even time the duration of the erection."

"Our guarantee in each clinic is very simple," says Nations. "If a man doesn't respond to a free test dose of the medication, right in the office, then there's no charge. We reverse any risk and patients have nothing to lose. Many men get very emotional when they see the results. This is truly life changing."

What about women's sexual health? As women age, they, too, experience physical and emotional changes that can make sex painful or, frankly, just not worth the time or effort. But the physicians and administrative team behind Doctor's Medical Clinic believe women's satisfaction is just as important! The two-part cutting-edge treatment for women typically consists of an Automatic Kegel Exerciser Therapy Treatment, an FDA-cleared, hand-held, in-home medical device that can help increase vaginal tightness with just a few simple treatments per week.
